

FIERCE STORM

One Hundred and Fifty Deaths Are Reported.

MANY WRECKS AND COLLISIONS OCCUR.

British Isles and Channels Are Swept By a Heavy Storm With a Deluge of Rain—Great Damage to Shipping and to Property in the Interior.

London, Nov. 13.—Disastrous gale which swept over England yesterday continues today, although it is abating somewhat in its fury. Numerous wrecks are reported on the North Cumberland and Durham coasts where eight persons were drowned. A vessel has been sunk at Dungeness and it is feared her entire crew has been lost.

TODAY REPORTS OF WRECKS AND COLLISIONS CONTINUE FROM ALL THE COASTS. ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY DEATHS HAVE BEEN REPORTED.

Edinburg, Nov. 13.—A revenue cutter has been wrecked in the Firth of Forth by the disastrous gale which has been sweeping over the entire United Kingdom for two days. Twenty-three of the cutter's crew were drowned.

PRODUCED WILL

In Which a Rich Old Merchant Gave Her All of His Earthly Possessions.

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 13.—Alexander Czeake was an aged violinist born in Hungary, of wide travel and a local celebrity. One night last December he dropped dead at a concert as his bow sounded the last notes of a favorite melody. He had no family nor relatives here, and the Probate Court appointed an administrator of his estate in Pensacola and musical instruments worth several thousand dollars.

These were to have been sold here yesterday but the sale was stopped by the filing for probate of a will bequeathing all he had to Miss Rosa A. Hardin, of Louisville, Ky., a member of the prominent family of that name and a relative of the Bruces.

Several years ago Prof. Czeake spent some eight months in Pensacola teaching music, and there he met Miss Hardin. The affection between them seems to have been that of an old master for an appreciative pupil. He visited her in Louisville, and they corresponded. The administrator contests the will, declaring it unwitnessed made in Kentucky and illegal, and contends that it is in the nature of a mere private letter. His most treasured and valuable possessions was a priceless violin made in 1517 in Italy. His legal heirs are three sisters living in Hungary.

Murder Mystery.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 13.—The criminal police department is trying to ferret out the murderers of Mrs. Georgia Bailey, whose body was found on the public highway a mile north of the city yesterday, and of Mrs. Lena Renner, whose body was discovered on the roadside a mile east of town last evening. Up to this time no lead has been secured that will justify the police in making arrests. Several men are under surveillance. The house of Mrs. Bailey was entered on the night of her murder although her son was in the house at the time and all her letters were carried away. It is learned that she was secretly friendly with a St. Louis traveling man, but the police refuse to divulge his name.

London, Nov. 13.—The British isles and channels are being swept by a fierce storm, with a deluge of rain. There have been serious floods in Yorkshire. Several of the suburbs of Dublin are flooded, and elsewhere in Ireland great damage has been done by floods. Several fatal accidents have occurred, and railway communication is delayed. In some parts of the country the rain has continued for 36 hours. In the Manchester district, although there has been considerable damage, the floods have been rather welcome than otherwise, as the mills had long suffered from the unusual drought. Reports continually arrive of shipping casualties, especially on the Northumberland coast, where the storm is extremely violent.

Three vessels were driven ashore at the entrance to the Tyne. Four small vessels have been wrecked in the vicinity of Sunderland, and another has been wrecked off Hartlepool. Altogether nine persons were drowned in these disasters. The lighthouse on the Sunderland pier has been washed away. The gale in the Irish channel is the severest known for many years. Five vessels have been wrecked in Kingstown harbor, which is strewn with wreckage. The mail boat Nord, which started from Dover for Calais, ran down the lights of the works of the New Dover pier. The crew of the lighthouse was drowned.

It is reported in Dover that 16 persons went down with the lighthouse. The Nord has gone ashore at the Foreland, but her passengers are said to be safe.

McKINLEY

Memorial Arch Association Will Ask For Holiday on Which to Raise Money.

Washington, Nov. 13.—The McKinley memorial arch association plans to raise the whole amount for the arch in one day, asking Roosevelt to make a national memorial holiday upon which subscriptions can be made to postmasters. There are 77,000 post offices and if the average subscription of $15 is raised the whole fund of over a million and a half will be raised.

Bank Blown Open.

Wapakoneta, Ohio, Nov. 13.—The Citizens Bank at Minster, ten miles from here, was entered by burglars and robbed during the past night. The safe and building were wrecked with dynamite. The citizens were aroused and a running fight ensued. One of the burglars was wounded but escaped. It is said that there were fifteen men in the gang.

Hunting Accident.

A New Lexington dispatcher given elsewhere in this paper tells of the death last evening of Wm. T. Schneider, who was shot while returning from a hunting trip. He and a companion were climbing a fence which broke and in the accidental discharge of the gun Schneider was fatally hurt. He lived two hours.

A special telegram to the Advocate from Zanesville this afternoon says that Mr. Schneider's companion whose shotgun was accidentally discharged was Judge C. E. Spencer, who for six years was Probate Judge of Perry county. Judge Spencer was the law partner of Circuit Judge Maurice Donahue, who is well known in Newark.

Suit For Damages.

Annie Trager through B. G. Smythe has filed suit in Squire Atcherley's court, asking $75 damages for injuries to her horse and wagon, sustained on September 15, by reason of a defect in the Valandigham street bridge. The suit is brought against the county and city.

CHALLENGED

The Prisoners—They Left Courtroom And His Honor Received a Black Eye.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 13.—Before trying the garnishment suit of Henry E. Siebert yesterday, Judge Frank H. Johnston administered a thrashing to the defendant in the case, then tried the case and gave Siebert a verdict. This is how it happened:

Siebert was sued for debt, and last night called the Judge up by telephone to ask him about the costs in the case. He told Johnston that the charges were too high, and said that the court was a "highway robber." This morning, instead of fining the defendant for contempt, the Judge ordered him to apologize.

Siebert refused to do so, and Johnston then told him he would have to use bodily force. The Judge and the defendant went out into the hall and were soon exchanging blows. During the scrimmage the Judge's eye was blackened. Friends of both soon parted the combatants, and the case proceeded, Siebert duly apologizing.

Johnston heard the case in an impartial manner. The testimony was evenly balanced. It was the word of Siebert against his accuser, and Johnston gave Siebert the benefit of the doubt. The Court dismissed the suit, and but for the eye that the Judge carries, nobody would know that it was ever tried.

HALLUCINATION

THAT PEOPLE ARE PERSECUTING AND FOLLOWING HER

Stylish Dressed Woman Ejected From London Office of New York Journal Today.

London, Nov. 13.—A stylishly dressed golden-haired woman attended by a nurse, a hotel clerk and a porter, and followed by a large crowd, entered the New York Journal office here this morning and said she wanted to cable to her mother who was in America. She refused to leave the office when requested and when she was finally removed, screamed and raised a disturbance.

It was later learned that she was Miss Vanderbilt Wackerman, a favorite of the aristocratic set, whose picture by Prof. Hubert Herkimer was exhibited at the academy.

Miss Wackerman is suffering from the hallucination that people are following and persecuting her. She believes that among those who are following her is the Crown Prince of Germany. She is staying at the Hotel Cecil with a maid as her only companion.

ILLEGALLY

Were Jurors Drawn and Many Cases Long Ago Tried Will Be Reopened.

Huntington, W. Va., Nov. 13.—Cabell county has an unparalleled case on its hands, one that is not only discussed by the legal profession, but by hundreds of others in this city tonight.

When the case of John S. Farr, a prominent Republican, was called in the Criminal Court on an indictment charging the killing of Owen Ross last July, Farr's attorneys sprung a sensation by moving to quash the jury, asserting it had not been legally drawn.

The list of jurors had been made up by Jury Commissioners of the Circuit Court, when it should have been made up by Jury Commissioners appointed by the Criminal Court, but these had never been appointed. The law is plain, and attorneys for both sides, as well as the court, acquiesced, and Court was adjourned until January, so as to get a legal jury.

The result of this is far-reaching. Every jury of the Criminal Court in Cabell county in the last 10 years has been illegal, and probably 250 people have been illegally sent to the penitentiary. All these criminals will be entitled to a new trial, and relatives are already employing attorneys to take charge of cases, notwithstanding the Judge's ruling is less than half a dozen hours old.

GIGANTIC

CONSOLIDATION OF WESTERN RAILWAYS.

Seven Big Systems Are to Be Combined.

OVER A BILLION IS INVOLVED

Charter Secured Today at Trenton—Harriman, Hill and Morgan are in the Big Deal.

New York, Nov. 13.—Plans for the gigantic consolidation of western railway interests are now complete. They will be laid before the directors this afternoon. Harriman, Hill and Morgan interests are represented. Seven great railway systems with 47,000 miles of track and combined capital stock of $1,042,000,000 are involved. They are the Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, Chicago and North-Western. The plans of settlement contemplate the formation of a holding company with 5 percent bonds which shall control the Northern Pacific. All the roads mentioned will be brought together in a community of interests as the result of the Northern Pacific settlement. The fight for control of this company it will be remembered, brought on the Wall Street panic of May 9th last.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 13.—Morgan and others interested in the gigantic North-Western railway deal have secured today a charter for the Northern securities company, the object of which is the purchase and acquisition of stocks; capital $400,000. This concern will take over seven big North-western railways and the new company is admitted to be a part of the billion dollar steel trust.

EGGS GO UP

THEY MAY BE EXPENSIVE AS STRAWBERRIES

By January, It is Claimed—Big Firms Buying All Eggs They Can Get.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 13.—Eggs promise to be as expensive in January as strawberries. Armour & Company, Swift & Company, and the big refrigerating houses are placing in cold storage every case of eggs that they can lay their hands on. They expect to have the market at their mercy by January 15, when a fresh laid egg will be a rarity. Then, it is asserted, the public will be compelled to meet the demands of the combine or abstain from eggs.

The retailers of eggs have shown their alarm over the threatening condition by demanding 27 cents a dozen for their supply. A week ago eggs could be bought for 22 cents. No fewer than 50,000 cases of eggs have gone into cold storage since July 1. Armour & Company are reported to own about half this number.

HENDERSON

Will Have No Opposition in the Republican Caucus for Speaker of The House.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Speaker Henderson of the House of Representatives, will arrive in the city Friday. Under ordinary conditions a full fledged fight for the speakership of the next house would be now in progress but as matters stand the house will organize next month without a flurry. A caucus of the Republican members will be held a few days before the opening of the session and Mr. Henderson will be agreed upon for speaker by a unanimous vote.

In place of wedding cake in Holland, wedding sweets are given—"bruidzuikers," they are called. They are handed round by children and are served in flower-trimmed baskets.

The difference between a playbill and a landlind is that the playbill gets stuck on a bill board and the landlind gets stuck on a boardbill.

FORGOT

He Had the Old Soldier's Will Until Months After the Latter's Death.

Sandusky, O., Nov. 13.—A will was submitted to the Probate Judge yesterday which ends much anxiety on the part of a number of people here. Last August Henry Hackett died. He was an old soldier, and out of his pension he had saved about $2,000, which was on deposit in a local bank. It was known that he had made a will, but after his death the document could not be found.

Yesterday Henry Faber of Cleveland, sent the will to Judge Curran with a letter stating that before Hackett's death the old soldier had left to do with him for safekeeping. Faber moved to Cleveland and forgot all about the will until his daughter found it several days ago. A number of people here are beneficiaries, the amounts ranging from $1 to $500.

EDWARD'S CORONATION.

London, Nov. 13.—King Edward has decided that in the coronation celebration no distinction will be made between the titles of King, Emperor, President. He declares his object is to honor the sates and not the man who is its head. Those Englishmen who are not aware of the constitutional prohibition, hope that President Roosevelt will come to the coronation. He could have a front seat under the new rule.

WALL FELL

CRUSHING THE LIFE OUT OF LOYD REED

Who Was Examining Gas Pipes After A Disastrous Fire—Another Man Badly Hurt.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Nov. 13.—Lloyd Reed was instantly killed by a falling wall this morning. About 8 o'clock last night fire was discovered at the Clarksburg Woolen Mills and in a few hours the entire plant was destroyed. Loss about $40,000. No insurance. Adjoining buildings contained $50,000 worth of finished goods which were saved. Reed, who was the manager of the mills, was investigating the natural pipes after the fire when, without warning, the front wall fell, crushing his life out. A young man named Jeffers was also seriously injured.

DIPHTHERIA

RAGING IN ZANESVILLE AND PUPILS STAY AT HOME.

Question of Again Closing the Schools Is Up—There are Twenty-four Cases in Town.

Zanesville, O., Nov. 13.—The people of Zanesville are again becoming alarmed over the diphtheria situation in Zanesville. The extent of this alarm may be judged from the fact that on Monday over 900 children were kept out of the city schools and on Tuesday this number was increased to over 1200 or about one-third of the total school enrollment.

These conditions have again brought up the question of closing the schools. It was reported throughout the city Monday and Tuesday that a hundred new cases of the disease had developed since the schools opened a week ago Monday, that a score of new cases had been reported Saturday and as many more Sunday. These reports of course were exaggerated, as it is claimed there are only 24 cases in town.

ALASKAN GOLD

Port Townsend, Washington, Nov. 13.—The steamer Alki has arrived from Skagway with $89,000 in gold. It reports that the southeastern coast of Alaska continues to be swept by severe winds and snow storms. An ice floe larger than ever known, due to the breaking of glaciers by an earthquake, is endangering shipping.

Since 1871, Japan has built nearly thirty thousand elementary schools providing room for 4,000,000 pupils, one-fourth of whom are girls.

MASSACRE

Of Company C as Told By Lieutenant F. F. Allison.

DETAILS OF THE SLAUGHTER GIVEN.

Filipinos Used a Clever Ruse to Get a Body of Men Together and Then When the Americans Were at Breakfast the Battle Began.

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 13.—Details of the massacre of members of Company C, Ninth Infantry at Samar, Philippine Islands, have just been received here through Lieutenant Allison, who was one of the passengers on the Empress of China. The military commanders, lulled by the apparent friendliness of the natives, had no thought of an uprising. Certain pioneer work was being done and the night before the massacre the village presidente declared to Captain Connell that he needed one hundred more native laborers. Not having the men at hand, Captain Connell told the presidente to do the best he could and to get any native who would work in clearing away the underbrush. This was what the Filipinos wanted—a chance to get together a body of men.

Just before daybreak, the natives with bolos to cut underbrush began coming into camp. Then the massacre began. The last underbrush man killed the sentry, the church bell rang, the soldiers went to breakfast below the floor that held their arms; the insurgents separated, half went up stairs and shot down the men there.

and the other half went in the mess room and murdered the unarmed soldiers by force of numbers.

Not one of the survivors turned his back upon the scene of carnage until their officers had fallen, their comrades had been slaughtered and a terrible vengeance executed upon the enemy. They then saved themselves and their wounded men.

Connell apparently was awakened in his quarters by the attackers pouring in. He was alone, so he jumped from the window, down among his guard, but the guards had all been slaughtered. He was struck down by many bolos almost as soon as he struck the ground. Not satisfied with killing him the assassins hacked his body into bits, severing the head, upon which they piled paper and sticks of wood, setting them afire to render the face unrecognizable. The body, however, was identified by Lieutenant Drouillard's detachment, which came down from Basey.

Separated from their weapons, most of the rank and file fought with table-knives, stones, clubs and such rude weapons as chance threw in their way.

DENIES THE MURDER

But Makes Serious Admissions to the Police.

Inspector Rathbun Again Sweated—Claims Goodman Died of Alcoholism, But That He Meant to Kill Him—Had No Accomplices—Developments in Case.

Louisville, Nov. 13.—According to the police, Newell C. Rathbun, who confessed that he planned to defraud an insurance company out of $4,000 by pretending that a corpse shipped to Little Rock, Ark., was his own dead body, has admitted, according to the authorities, that the man who accompanied him to the hotel in Jeffersonville, Ind., and was found dead next day, was Charles Goodman, who is said to have come from Evansville.

Coroner Coats of Jeffersonville, Chief Applegate and Chief of Detectives Sullivan pumped Rathbun, who listened as one by one the circumstances which the police regard as proofs of his guilt, were laid before him by Chief Sullivan. According to the officers Rathbun suddenly sprang up, and, walking hastily to a window, looked out for a few minutes. Then, turning like an animal at bay, he faced the crowd of men in the room and asked, in a shaking voice: "What is the punishment for offenses of this kind in Indiana?" Does the death penalty exist there?" "Never mind about the penalty, Rathbun," said Captain Sullivan. "What we are interested in is the name of the dead man."

For a moment Rathbun looked at the group of faces before him, and then he said: "You are on the right track. Goodman is the name of the dead man. I met him in front of the Salvation Army and determined to keep him drunk for several days and then fix him." Here he stopped and then said: "If I should make a confession it would be printed in the papers, and would turn people against me." Further efforts to secure a complete confession were unavailing, and Rathbun was taken back to jail. Just before this, however, he made the following statement to Chief of Detectives Sullivan:

"I Admit Everything except that I killed Goodman. I meant to kill him, and kept him drunk for the purpose, but he died of alcoholism and I was not forced to make way with him. My story about an accomplice named Blanchard was fictitious. I acted alone and without a confederate."

It is said that Goodman, who was of a roving nature, came to this city on Oct. 29 and took up quarters at the Salvation Army. He repeatedly told the clerk, J. C. Pelton, that he did not have any money and did not know how he would get out of the city. Mr. Pelton says that about noon last Wednesday Goodman entered the hotel and remarked that he had "just met an easy mark," who had given him a quarter. "I have got an engagement with him at 7 o'clock tonight and he is going to show me how to make some money," continued Goodman. Shortly before 7 o'clock Pelton says he saw Goodman meet a man answering Rathbun's description in front of the hotel. Detective Donahue followed the clue and found that the two men who answer the descriptions of Rathbun and Goodman appeared in the Falls City hotel in Jeffersonville about 8 o'clock. Rathbun registered for both and they were assigned to different rooms. According to Pelton's story Goodman returned to the Salvation Army hotel shortly after 9 o'clock with a new coat and vest on, and also a collar and tie. Pelton says he joked him about the change in his appearance, and Goodman said he had got the clothes from the "easy mark" he had met in the morning. Goodman told Pelton to check him off, as he was going to spend the night in Indiana with his friend. Goodman went out in a short time and has not been seen at the hotel since.

Rathbun's Wife.

Little Rock, Nov. 13.—Rathbun's wife is prostrated, and it is said by her physicians that her condition is precarious, and all admittance to newspaper men is prohibited. Rathbun was born in Oswego, N. Y., 28 years ago. His description answers the description of the corpse here except that, without the shoes, the body measures only 5 feet 7 1/2 inches, while it is claimed Rathbun measures 5 feet 8 1/2 inches. The face is clean shaven and has the appearance of a man about 24 years old.

Grand Jury Empaneled.

Jeffersonville, Ind., Nov. 13.—Judge James K. Marsh of the Clark county circuit court will empanel a special grand jury Monday to consider the case of Rathbun.

TURNING DOWN SCALLAWAGS.

President Roosevelt is showing sturdy political good sense in refusing to make Southern appointments at the dictation of the scurvy lot of politicians who control the Republican party—what little there is of it—in the cotton States, in turning their recommendations down and making selections acceptable to the people. These Southern machines have been countenanced or created by Mark Hanna, commencing back in the contest for McKinley delegates to the St. Louis convention of 1896. Their mission in politics is to bargain and trade—to sell and buy delegates to the Republican National conventions. Out of this comes their profit. President Roosevelt appears to have no use for them and Hanna will not be allowed to use them.

The extent and numerous details of the election frauds by the Republican machine in Philadelphia is coming out. In some wards, where the elections were farcical, 3,500 more votes were cast than at the presidential election. All politicians know this is conclusive evidence of ballot-box stuffing or repeating. In New York, with one of at the presidential contest when a full tally, 30,000 fewer votes were cast than cast than at the presidential election. vote came out. In the whole of Philadelphia about 18,000 more votes were cast than at the presidential election. Such an increase is unknown in the history of our elections.

Avoidance of the Issue.

(Springfield Republican.)
If the republican leaders cannot now find it in their tender, friendly souls to cross one single overprotected interest, even so far as to adopt the generally picaresque reductions of the Kasson treaties, how much better are the recommendations of a reciprocity commission likely to fare at their hands? The commission suggestion is significant simply of a policy of delay and avoidance in the matter. And this is all that the coming session of congress promises just now. The last counsel of President McKinley will continue, no doubt, to be highly honored to the word, but otherwise ignored. "Let well enough alone" is the answer Mr. Hanna and the party in Ohio are making to it.

Premium Put on Rascality.

(Indianapolis Sentinel.)
The Democrats of New York had an able and stainless candidate for Mayor, yet he was defeated because he was held responsible for Tammany's sins. The Republicans of Philadelphia, on the contrary, stood by and elected Quay's ticket, composed of his known tools and satellites, in the face of such exposures of official villainy as would have paralyzed any other community on earth pretending to be civilized. It would thus appear that the premium on rascality in the Republican party is as great as the discount on it in the Democratic party.

Philadelphia's Deep Disgrace.

(Detroit Free Press.)
The city in which the Declaration of Independence was signed and the Constitution of the United States drafted has again voiced its preference for governmental slavery. The Quay victory was overwhelming Tuesday, despite the fact that every newspaper except one fought magnificently for the fusion ticket. Philadelphia with its comparatively small foreign element, seems to be the least civilized and the least free of all great American cities and the love of political liberty seems less intense there.

The busy lawyer might be said to be working like a horse when he is drawing a conveyance.

Subsidies for the Rich.

(Portland Oregonian.)

Will anybody say why men who build ships should have subsidies or grants of money from the treasury? Such subsidies or grants will all go to men already rich, for none except rich men have shipyards or are in the ship-building business. The farmer or the wage worker will build no ships. Why should they be taxed to increase the wealth of those who do build them or may build them—if the treasury can be tapped for the money?

An Impending Conflict.

(Syracuse Telegram.)

The conflict between Roosevelt and the party leaders is bound to come. The people may be with Roosevelt, but the senators and the representatives will propose to have their say in the dispensation of the federal patronage or they will know the reason why. There are likely to be warm times in congress this winter. The senate may bring up standing the acting president sooner than he anticipates.

BRIDEGROOM

SHOT HIMSELF ON DAY OF HIS WEDDING.

The Cause is a Mystery and the Bride To Have Been is Completely Prostrated.

Logansport, Ind., Nov. 13.—Elmer Montgomery of this city, while dressing himself for his wedding, shot himself through the temple, dying within a few minutes, without assigning any cause for his rash act. Montgomery was to be united in marriage to Miss Edyth Thomas, a pretty young woman of this city. Miss Thomas is prostrated by the news of her sweetheart's death, and his terrible deed is more of a mystery to her than to anyone.

New Western League.
Chicago, Nov. 13.—The Chicago franchise in the new western league, if the plans of Adrian Anson go through, will be held next spring by a company composed of Anson and Mr. Chase of Des Moines. Furthermore, the club will play on the old West Side grounds, in hostile competition to James A. Hart. The new western league will also, it is said, fight its two big rivals in St. Louis, and the circuit will be Milwaukee, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Louisville, possibly Indianapolis, Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Town Burned Out.
Parsons, W. Va., Nov. 13.—Fire at Thomas, in this county, destroyed 62 buildings and left over 100 families homeless. The postoffice, many stores and 30 houses belonging to the Davis Coal company are in ruins, and the loss is estimated at from $150,000 to $200,000. One life is reported lost. The high wind made the fighting of the fire impossible, and all the destruction was wrought in three hours' time. The fire started by the explosion of a lamp in the Giesberger hotel.

Found Murdered.
Ardmore, I. T., Nov. 13.—Charles W. Hildebrand, 64, a prominent member of the Grand Army, was found dead in the street. He had been shot twice, once through the heart. Dudley Slaughter, 26, son of Alderman Slaughter, and E. W. Lewis were arrested, charged with the murder.

At a Great Age.
London, Nov. 13.—Lady Catherine Jane Carew, grandmother of the present Baron Carew, died at Woodstown, Waterford, aged 104. She was a guest at the famous Brussels ball on the eve of the battle of Waterloo, and was a noted beauty at the court of Louis Philippe.

Big Fire and Fatalities.
Odessa, Nov. 13.—The Maudevitch building, one of the finest blocks in Odessa, which include a fashionable arcade of shops, has been destroyed by fire. Ten persons perished and 35 others were injured. The damage is estimated at 1,000,000 roubles.

Street Duel.
Paul's Valley, I. T., Nov. 13.—At Hart, 30 miles east of here, James White, a Chickasaw Indian, and William Miller, a prominent cattlemen, engaged in a street duel. Miller was shot dead and a bystander seriously wounded.

Kent—That Baltimore and Ohio midnight was half an hour late proved a blessing in disguise. Owing to this a freight, which would have remained at Monroe Falls, came on to Kent and the engineer discovered on the main track a heavy timber. It was placed across the track and spiked down, the intention being beyond doubt to wreck the passenger train. The scene is on a high embankment above the Cuyahoga River, and the catastrophe that would have resulted would have been terrible.

"I tell you," said the man with the blue goggles, enthusiastically, "the automobile is more than a toy." "Yes," admitted the tired-looking citizen, "I've been run over half a dozen times myself."

REAR ADMIRAL CROWNINSHIELD, WHO IS TO HAVE A NEW POST.

Rear Admiral A. Schuyler Crowninshield, who has been for several years chief of the bureau of navigation, will be detached from his present post early next year and in March will take command of the European squadron. He will probably be in charge of that squadron during the ceremonies connected with the coronation of King Edward VII. next spring.

FOR THE CHILDREN

A Bird That Plays "I Spy."

"Did you ever know a bird that could play 'I spy'?"
Well, Manuela, our parrot, likes nothing better than to have the children gather in the back yard and make ready for a game of "I spy," says Julia B. Tutwiler in Little Folks. Of course she doesn't hide as the children do—oh, no, she thinks her part of the game is to keep watch.

Just as soon as the "counter" goes to the base, shuts his eyes and begins to say "5, 10, 15, 20, 25, 30" and so on to 100, Manuela runs for the pine tree and up she climbs to the highest limb. From this perch she can see behind the barn, around the corner of the house and back of the garden fence; in fact, she has a good view of all the nice hiding places.

I wish you could see Manuela climb. She has a great, long, crooked bill, which she hooks into the bark of the tree and pulls herself up until she gets to the limbs. After that it is very easy. She looks so funny with her long tail hanging down, for, you see, Manuela is a macaw and has a red tail three feet long.

She is not green, like most parrots, but is red, with bright blue and yellow rings. She looks like a great big, beautiful flower up among the dark green pine branches.

When everybody is hidden and the "counter" begins to spy around to see whom he can find, Manuela calls as loud as she can from the top of the pine tree, "Com-in-g! Com-in-g!" And, oh, when a race for the base takes place between two of the swiftest runners you should hear her scream and laugh: "One, two, three, for me! Free! Free!"

She says, "All free; free us," and all the other things the children say in the game, and she never gets tired of playing.

Manuela seems to love little children more than anything, and lots of little boys and girls come to see her. What do you suppose a little girl asked the other day? She asked, "Is that the bird that lays the Easter eggs?" You see, Manuela is blue and red and yellow and green and purple, just like an Easter egg, and it was very natural for a child to think she might lay those pretty eggs.

Children and the President.

Many stories are told of the affection Theodore Roosevelt entertains for children, but they from the daintiest homes or from the streets. One day when he was governor a delegation of public men came up to Albany and called upon him. He was not in his office, and no one knew where he was. The business was important and time not to be wasted. A dozen messengers were sent hunting the governor, and after ten minutes of the precious time had passed they found him curled up in a corner with one or two neighbors' children and a street arab drawing pictures of guns and ponies on the writing table. The children had watched him and begged him to show them pictures of the guns and mustangs he had in the war. At another time he was found in the executive chamber half buried under children clambering over his chair, while he tried to show them photographs of scenes of the campaign.

Animal Instinct.

Animal instinct often gives a valuable hint to human reason. A case in point is cited by an engineer in a recently written review of the subject of dams. The beaver, he says, does not build his dam straight across the current, his instinct telling him that in this form it will better resist floods and the impact of floating ice. This hint from the little animal has been acted upon in many cases lately, notably in the building of the Great Bear valley dam in California. Engineers, as a rule, build straight across stream, chiefly, perhaps, to save material, but the arched dam is the more economical in the long run.

Beechnuts.
There is nothing sweeter than the little three cornered beechnuts, but very few people have the patience to take them out of their brown leathery jackets, let alone hunt for them and pick them up. They are generally left for the pigs and the squirrels. Many birds are exceedingly fond of them, and it is said that in certain localities the number of redheaded woodpeckers which remain for the winter can be pretty accurately determined by the size of the beechnut crop the preceding autumn.

The Quarrelsome Kittens.
Two little kittens,
One came, night,
Began to quarrel,
And then to fight.

One had a mouse,
And the other had none,
And tarts the way,
The quarrel begun.

"I will have that mouse,"
Said the biggest cat,
"You'll have that mouse?"
We'll see about that!"

"I will have that mouse,"
Said the tortoise shell,
And, spitting and scratching,
On his sister she fell.

The old lady took
The sweeping broom
And swept them both
Right out of the room.

The ground was covered
Thick with snow;
They had lost the mouse
And had nowhere to go.

So they lay and shivered
Beside the door
Till the old lady had finished
Sweeping the floor.

And then they crept in
As quiet as mice,
All wet with snow,
And cold as ice.

And found it much better
That stormy night
To lie by the fire
Than quarrel and fight.

THE COLOSSUS OF RHODES.

One of the Ancient Seven Wonders of the World.

The ancients succeeded in making that alloy of copper which is known as bronze. Among the seven wonders of the world was the famous statue, wholly made of bronze, historically known as the colossus of Rhodes. It represented Phobos, the national deity of the Rhodians. It was begun by Chares, a pupil of Lysippos, the sculptor, and was completed by Laches 285 B. C. The popular belief is that it stood astride the harbor of Rhodes, that it was 105 feet high and that ships could easily sail between its legs.

Pliny said that few men could clasp its thumb. It was cast on metal plates, afterward joined together, and this process occupied twelve years. In the interior was a spiral staircase reaching into its head, and in a great mirror suspended to its neck were reflected the coast of Syria and the ships sailing to Egypt.

After it had stood for sixty-four years this colossus was overthrown by an earthquake, and its remains lay on the shore for 723 years—that is, until A. D. 672—when they were sold by the Saracens to a Hebrew dealer. The original cost was 300 talents—say, $6,000,000—and it is not too much to say that a similar image might be constructed now in one-fourth of the time and at one-third of the original cost. Rhodes, by the way, must have had colossus on the brain, for Pliny relates that the port was adorned with 1,000 colossal statues of the sun.

THE MODERN MOTHER

Has found her little ones are improved more by the pleasant Syrup of Figs, when in need of a laxative effect of a gentle remedy, than by any other. Children enjoy it and it benefits them. The true remedy, Syrup of Figs, is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Company only.

Kindly take notice that Ely's Liquid Cream Balm is of great benefit to those sufferers from nasal catarrh who cannot inhale freely through the nose, but must treat themselves by spraying. Liquid Cream Balm differs in form, but not medicinally from the Cream Palm that has stood for years at the head of remedies for catarrh. It may be used in any nasal atomizer. The price, including a spraying tube, is 75 cents. Sold by druggists and mailed by E.H. Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York.

Silk hats continue to be very fashionable in England. Of course the greatest wear is in London, but throughout Great Britain there is expended each year over $1,000,000 on this style of headgear.

In view of the fact that about half a million postal cards are mailed every year in Germany without any address the authorities recommend that the address should be written first.

A Name Twice Made Famous, Now a Shining Mark for Imitators.

The name "Chase," twice made famous, is a shining mark for the unscrupulous to pounce upon and appropriate in order to foist upon the public their worthless preparations. These birds of prey, by using the name Chase, expect the public to be fooled into believing they are the medicines of Dr. A. W. Chase, who first became noted as the author of the world famous Dr. Chase's Recipe Book and family physician, and whose name is now doubly increased by the wonderful success of his Nerve Pills, with Nerve, Brain and Blood troubles. They play upon the name Chase, but dare not use the initials "A. W."

They imitate, but dare not counterfeit the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, which identifies the Nerve Pills now recognized as infallible for building up pale, weak, thin-blooded, nerve exhausted sufferers.

Who are easily exhausted.
Who are wakeful—cannot sleep.
Who have nervous headaches.
They remove the cause of blood impurities, securing refreshing sleep and impart strength.
They build up people who find their strength and vigor waning.
They settle irritated nerves, replace languor and lassitude with energy and animation. Cure Nervous Dyspepsia.

CAUTION!—The protection to the public in securing the genuine and original Dr. A. W. Chase preparation is in seeing the portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., is on each box. These and these only are the genuine. Do not be satisfied with anything bearing the name "Chase" without the initials A. W. 50 cent of Druggists or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

After the Steel Trust.

Minneapolis, Nov. 13.—Minnesota and the steel trust will lock horns in the supreme court of the United States before another year has passed. The contest will decide whether the independent owner of ore deposits is to have an even chance with the trust of marketing his product at the smelter, or whether he must submit to any rate the railroads choose to name, and in the end be compelled to sell his property to the combine at a sacrifice. The trust, owning railroads, docks and lake carriers, can, in the present absence of state regulation, name a prohibitive rate for handling ore. The railroad and warehouse commission issued a formal order directing the railroads to file, on or before Dec. 3, a rate on shipments from the mines to the docks at Duluth and Two Harbors. The railroads will contest this order in the courts.

Trade Relations With Canada.

Washington, Nov. 13.—An important interview with President Roosevelt is being held at White House by representatives of the Boston chamber of commerce and business men from various sections of the country in behalf of more intimate trade relations with Canada. The movement for reciprocal relations with Canada, begun by the chamber of commerce, has resulted in definite plans whereby the representatives shall give the executive their views on the merits of the question. Secretary Long arranged the interview, and it is understood that the question is thus to be considered before President Roosevelt writes his message to congress.

Afghanistan Post Attacked.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 13.—It is reported here that Jehandad Khan, who fled from Afghanistan on the death of the ameer, has been making trouble on the Indian frontier. He gathered several hundred followers and attacked an Afghan post of 200 troops, commanded by Ali Akbar, near the frontier. Ali Akbar drove the rebels over the frontier, losing one officer and nine soldiers killed. The British authorities, according to report, then arrested Ali Akbar, while Jehandad Khan fled to Kurram valley. Habib Ullah has ordered the troops to pursue Jehandad Khan.

THIS AND THAT.

Fire Chief Lou Bausch of the local fire department tells a good story on his friend Chief Devine of the Salt Lake City department, which has caused considerable mirth around headquarters. He thinking it practically impossible for his barn, located within 100 feet of the fire headquarters, to burn, failed to renew his insurance policy. The barn burned to the ground the other day, and now the chief is mourning the loss of a fine barn and $250, which was the amount of the policy.

An Associated Press dispatch says that the "St. Perkins" dramatic comedy is quarantined in an interior city in Minnesota and all on account of a smallpox scare. Newark is not the only city that is having its troubles.

Six volunteer firemen at Mt. Vernon N. Y., formed a human chain during an early morning fire the other day, and thereby saved the lives of the members of six families, who were living in the flat building in which the fire was raging.

On election night the applause awarded to Elsie De Wolf, who is appearing at the Victoria in "The Way of the World," was remarkably vigorous. One of the scenes is laid in Mrs. Crovden's apartment on election night. Her husband is running for Governor, and from the window the great tower of Madison Square Garden can be seen, with Crovden's name in electric lights, while outside in the crowd, with blowing horns and making all other kinds of election noise. The Victoria, being situated on Broadway, and at that particular part of it where the crowd was noisest on election night, the scene was so realistic on the stage and outside the building that the audience was mightily pleased.—N. Y. Cor. Cincinnati Enquirer.

In his annual report which will be completed soon, Postmaster General Smith will ask for an increase of the appropriation for the rural free delivery service from the present sum of $3,500,000 to $6,000,000, and will advocate the extension of the service as far as practicable. Up to the present time there are 16 rural routes in Licking county, five leading out of Newark, two from Johnstown, two from Granville, two from Pataskala, four from Utica, and one from Hebron. The following additional routes have been approved by the two Ohio Senators and will probably be established: two from Croton, two more from Johnstown, one from Alexandria, one each from Summit Station, Outville, Hanover, Black Hand, St. Louisville, Vanatta and four from Newark.

Congressmen from districts, whose territory surrounds Licking county notably Van Voorhis of Zanesville and Grosvenor of Athens have been crowding in on Licking territory and the same is true regarding routes in Delaware and Knox counties.

JUDGE WICKHAM

WILL CONTEST ELECTION OF GEO. COYNER.

Thought That Enough Illegal Votes Were Cast in District to Change the Result.

Mt. Vernon, O., Nov. 13.—Judge E. M. Wickham will contest the election of George Coyner, it is announced this noon.

Judge E. M. Wickham of Delaware, was in the city on Tuesday evening in consultation with his attorneys, Judge S. M. Hunter and Fulton & Fulton, regarding the advisability of contesting the election of George Coyner of Delaware, to the Common Pleas bench. The probability is that the contest will be filed. The Judge and his attorneys think that there have been enough illegal votes cast for Coyner in the district to change the result of the election in favor of Wickham by from 75 to 100 votes.

The district comprises Licking, Delaware and Knox counties.

Outlook Bright.

Dr. Day said today that a number of smallpox patients had been dismissed as cured and that the remaining cases are located in the new pest house south of town. They are few in number and the disease seems to be rapidly abating. The only remaining patients still outside of the pest house are the family of Harvey Jones, composed of Mrs. Jones and three children, and they will be removed to the pest house this evening.

Roosevelt Stands With Lincoln On Woman's Suffrage

By ETHEL C. AVERY, Woman Suffragist

ROOSEVELT is the first president of the United States since Abraham Lincoln who had expressed himself publicly in favor of woman suffrage before attaining the presidency. Cleveland proved himself favorable to it by actions rather than words, as he signed bills giving women partial suffrage in New York when he was governor of that state. Hayes favored it in his quiet way and helped to get a woman's rights resolution through the national Republican convention of 1872. Garfield said, "Laugh as we may, put it aside as a jest if we will, keep it out of congress or political campaigns, still the woman question is rising on our horizon larger than the size of a man's hand, and some solution ere long that question must find." Several presidents have been understood to be more or less friendly to equal suffrage, but ROOSEVELT AND LINCOLN HAVE BEEN THE ONLY ONES TO PUT THEMSELVES CONSPICUOUSLY ON RECORD.

Roosevelt excited consternation among conservatives by his recommendation of woman suffrage in a message to the legislature when governor of New York. And Lincoln said in a letter to the electors of Sangamon county, Ill., dated June 13, 1836, "I go for all sharing the privileges of the government who assist in bearing its burdens; consequently I go for admitting all whites to the right of suffrage who pay taxes or bear arms, BY NO MEANS EXCLUDING FEMALES."

WILL RECOVER

William Hannum, (not Hannum as given yesterday) car builder at the Jewett Car Works, who sustained injuries on Tuesday by being struck by a freight train at the Sixth street crossing, whereby his right leg was shattered below the knee and his left arm broken, is resting comfortably at the hospital. It is not thought that the limb will have to be amputated. He is expected to recover.

BADLY HURT

WAS CHARLES EVANS IN A BAR ROOM FIGHT

Victim is Said to Have Gone to Dayton From Newark—He is Not Known Here.

A special dispatch from Dayton, O., to this morning's Cincinnati Commercial Tribune says:

Harry Eckman, a young employee of the Davis Sewing Machine Company is held by the police on two charges, assault and battery and assault to kill. These may be made more serious, should William Evans, who was assaulted and beaten in an East Dayton saloon, not recover from his injuries. Shop men employed by the Davis Sewing Machine Company were involved in an altercation in the saloon, which developed in an fist fight. Charles Evans, who recently came to Dayton from Newark, O., was made the victim. His brother William rushed to his assistance. Then the crowd is alleged to have centered their energies on William, with the result that he was knocked to the floor and beaten insensibly. He sustained concussion of the brain. Dr. Agnew refused to allow him to be removed from the place. The police are making a thorough investigation. Eckman, the only man arrested, is an assembler, 28 years old. He denies the charge against him.

An effort has been made during the day to ascertain the identity of the Charles Evans who is mentioned in the foregoing dispatch and inquiry has been made in all parts of the city but no such person is known.

GAME LAWS

Chief Warden Says Quail Can Be Offered for Sale if Killed Out of the State—The Law.

Chief State Game Warden L. H. Reutinger stated Tuesday that an impression prevails that quail cannot be offered for sale and as a result the fish and game commission has received a number of communications on the subject. Hotel keepers are serving quail under different names for fear of prosecution.

Mr. Reutinger said quail killed in Ohio can not be sold or bartered in markets of the state but quail killed legally without the state and shipped into it can be sold in markets during the open season, which extends from November 10 to December 15, providing suitable way bill can be produced if demanded. Any person is allowed to give away quail, however, or have quail in their possession until December 15, but they must not kill quail in Ohio after December 1.

"The law says the following game may be killed between the 10th day of November and the first day of December, inclusive: Quail, dove, woodcock, squirrel, rabbit, ruffed grouse or native pheasant or prairie chicken, rail, snipe, killdeer, plover, coot or mud hen and wild duck. It is unlawful to kill wild duck in the state on Sunday or Monday of any week or before 5 o'clock in the forenoon and 6 o'clock in the afternoon of any day upon which it shall be lawful to kill the same. It is unlawful to hunt on any lands without having first secured permission from the owner, his agent or tenant of the person having control of the same."

Mr. Reutinger with several assistants was busy during the day moving the headquarters of the commission from Athens to Columbus. The headquarters in the future will be in the State House. The chief warden has received notifications of at least 50 persons for unlawful hunting. The defendants were mostly hunters, who could not wait until the season opened. Those already tried have been fined from $25 upwards.

WHILE HUNTING

HENRY ORR MET WITH A BAD ACCIDENT

Near Brownsville—Gun Went Off Accidentally Nearly Blowing Off Mr. Orr's Left Hand.

A message from Brownsville in the southern part of the county tells of a hunting accident in which Henry Orr was the victim as follows:

Henry Orr, a saw mill man, living two miles north of town, while out hunting had the misfortune to meet with a terrible accident.

While passing under a grape vine in the woods he caught the lock of his gun on the vine. The gun was discharged, the load taking effect in his left hand, completely tearing off his thumb and fore finger and injuring another finger.

Doctor Holmes rendered the necessary surgical aid.

Town In Danger.

Helena, Mon., Nov. 13.—A swamp fire near Ovando, a small town a few miles west of Helena, is endangering the town. The fire has been burning about a week. It is burning with such persistency that it is believed to be underlain with coal, which has become ignited. Water has been turned into the swamp with little effect on the flames. A report from Ovando says if the wind turns and blows the fire toward the town it is doomed.

Royal Couple to Separate.

Berlin, Nov. 13.—There appears to be foundation for the renewed reports that a divorce of the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Hesse is impending. Incompatibility of temper, long existing, appears to have reached the point where a separation is inevitable. They are both grandchildren of the late Queen Victoria.

Miss Stone's Letters.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Nov. 13.—Mr. Dickinson quotes from Miss Stone's letters, saying that the chief danger to which she is exposed is flight from hiding places by night at the approach of troops. It declares that the people of the United States will hold the Bulgarian government morally and legally responsible for the lives of the captives should the bandits, exasperated by pursuit, slay them.

Salisbury to Retire.

London, Nov. 13.—Referring to Lord Salisbury's speech last Saturday night at the guild hall, Truth says "The careless composition of the speech of the premier, which contained some singularly obscure sentences, has revived the talk of his impending retirement and has given cause for believing, at least, that he no longer takes an earnest interest in political life."

Strychnine in Food.

Breda, Ia., Nov. 13.—Joseph Naberhaus, a farmer living near here, his wife and child, were poisoned Sunday by strychnine sprinkled in their food while they were at church. Naberhaus came near dying, and his wife and child required the aid of physicians to resuscitate them after eating the poisoned food. This is the third attempt to poison the family within a year.

It has been ascertained by experiment that turkeys that get carcasses mixed with their food get heavier than others, and their meat is more tender and better flavored.

THE BUTTON'S STORY

When I first came into the world, I was very bright. I was sewed on to the coat of a naval officer; very badly sewed, for at a ball in the midst of a waltz I came off and rolled on the floor. A little white gloved hand picked me up and held me close and slyly dropped me into a silk lined pocket.

"I saw him lose it," I heard a pretty woman's voice murmur. "I know it is Mr. Mortimer's."

That night I went home, hot to a gentleman's room, but to a fair lady's. All alone in this room with me, she took me from her pocket and kissed me.

Never was I so surprised, but I soon found it was not for my own sake.

"I know you do not love me now, Mortimer," she whispered, "but you have worn this, and I will keep it."

She kissed me again and strung me upon a little blue silk ribbon and tied me about her white throat.

All night I lay against her soft heart and felt it beat.

I was not sorry that I had been lost from the officer's coat.

Indeed I detested him now, for, from what this lovely creature said to me, it was plain that he had made love to her and at last jilted her for some one who had more money.

I made up my mind, of course, that I should be worn about the young lady's neck forever, but I reckoned without my host.

Youth is youth. Pretty soon the young lady ceased to talk so much about Mortimer.

Another gentleman had come upon the carpet. Soon she was "engaged."

On that evening I was hastily crammed into a box and heartlessly left there. Rose was married and went upon her bridal trip, and unless the lid of the box happened to be up I saw nothing of the fine doings.

When she had gone, her little sister came into the room one day, spied me and carried me off. After that I was, for a long time a doll's watch.

I hung upon gold thread about a china neck and was carried all about the house, upstairs and down, even out into the street sometimes.

At last—my destiny has ever hung upon a thread—that gold twist snapped in two, and I rolled into a space between the paving stones.

There I lay deserted, forlorn and dirty, my gliding fast going and no one even taking any notice of me.

It was the pavement outside a little park, a quiet, aristocratic place. Ladies dressed in velvet and costly silk swept past.

One day my lady came there, she who had worn me on her heart so long. She walked slowly up and down. One white hand was ungloved. Upon it glittered her wedding ring and its diamond keeper.

She looked at her watch. "He is late," she said. Then she blushed rosy red and whispered, "No, he comes."

I looked. Through the leafy shadows of the park came my first owner, Mortimer.

They walked up and down together. Often their feet touched me. I could not hear what they said, but I saw how she looked. It was enough for me.

Again had the poor gilt button but had a voice how it would have cried out!

But alas, would she have listened to me when she was heedless of the mute appeal of the wedding ring upon her finger? I fear not. Often and often after that they met there. It was springtime when they first came. In the autumn, when the leaves had rustled from the trees and carpeted the ground, they came there still. Now she often wept, and he sometimes spoke almost angrily. I knew something terrible was about to happen. At last one morning Mortimer came to the rendezvous.

Now, instead of her light tread, came the rapid footfalls of an angry man. I saw for a moment a face I had not seen since Rose's wedding day—the brown bearded face of her husband.

An oath rang upon the air. I heard the report of a pistol; then Mortimer fell across me, dead, and his lifeblood dripped over my tarnished gilding.

Dapper that came a crowd, a bustle, men in the uniform of the police. The body was carried away. The rain washed the blood from the pavement. Still I remained wedged in my nook, and on my breast one dry drop of that heart's blood.

Years swept by. There was no gilding left upon me: I was a bit of rusted metal, nothing more.

One day a miserable creature staggered through the park. Her clothes were mere shreds and tatters. Her face was miserably thin. Save for two flapping slippers, her feet were bare.

She put her skeleton arms upon the cold stones and laid her head upon them.

"Here he died," she said. "Mortimer, Mortimer!"

And I knew Rose's voice. Oh, a faded and withered rose indeed!

Then her eyes—dying eyes, I knew—caught sight of me.

She put her finger under the crevice of the stone and lifted me out.

"How odd!" she said. "I wore such a button as this was once over my heart for a year because it dropped from his coat. How strange I should find one here where he died!"

Then she took me in her hand. It closed upon me. It was very cold.

A Hard Job.

Doctor—What! Your dyspepsia no better? Did you follow my advice and drink hot water an hour before breakfast?

Patient—I tried to, doctor, but I was unable to keep it up for more than five minutes at a time.

PAUL SUIT

GREAT INTEREST IN THE COMING TRIAL AT DELAWARE.

Barker's Sudden Death Last Spring Left Estate to be Settled Through The Courts.

Delaware, O., Nov. 12.—Interest in the suit instituted by Mrs. Alice B. Flemming against the administrator of the estate of the late Carey P. Paul has been greatly revived by the motion on behalf of the defendants to compel the plaintiff to "make her petition more definite and certain." When the case comes up for final trial there will be a legal battle between the best talent of the state. Public interest centers in the sensational and romantic story that will necessarily be unfolded and in a desire to see the handsome widow who so fascinated the dead millionaire in his lifetime.

At the time of her husband's death, 20 years ago, Mrs. Flemming naturally turned to his lifelong friend, Carey P. Paul, for assistance in settling his estate. He realized $1,000 from his property, she alleges, and also collected $5,000 life insurance, keeping the money for investment purposes and giving her notes therefor. The two were much in each other's company and gossip had it that they were soon to be married.

Little more than a year elapsed, however, when Mr. Paul, much to the surprise of all, married Miss Kate Brown, an estimable lady of this city. She was settled in the family homestead of Mr. Paul, where she still resides.

The association with Mrs. Flemming, however, was soon renewed. They were often seen together in this and other cities, and the gossips had a sweet morsel. Mrs. Flemming insists that their association was simply and purely the result of mutual business interests, and that their business was successful as evidenced by the $35,000 note which she seeks to enforce against the estate, representing, as she claims, returns on investments made for her by Mr. Paul.

Not long after Mr. Paul's marriage Mrs. Flemming moved from this city. A voluminous correspondence was maintained between the two, interspersed with frequent visits made by Mr. Paul. His sudden death in the city last spring left his estate to be settled through the courts and hence the suit by Mrs. Flemming, whose claim the heirs refuse to recognize.

AT ZANESVILLE

Wedding of Earl Nash and Miss Friesinger Occurred Tuesday—Celebrated at Home of Bride.

(Zanesville Times-Recorder)

Mr. G. Earl Nash and Miss Catherine Friesinger were happily united in holy bonds of wedlock at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning at the home of the bride's mother Mrs. Rosa Friesinger, on the Marietta road. Rev. Prange of the German Evangelical church performing the ceremony, which was attended only by the near relatives of the contracting parties.

Mr. Nash is cashier of the Stolzenbach branch of the National Biscuit company and is a highly valued employee of that firm. He removed to this city from Newark some months ago and during that time has made a host of friends. Miss Friesinger is a popular young lady having formed a wide acquaintance as a clerk in the Stolzenbach store.

Mr. and Mrs. Nash left Tuesday afternoon at 12:40 over the B. & O. railroad for Cincinnati, where they will remain for ten days. They will take up their residence on their return with Mrs. Friesinger, the bride's mother, on the Marietta road.

1901. TAXES ARE NOW DUE.

FIRST half payable in DECEMBER; The LAST half falls due next June. Became a LIEN on property April 8, 1901.

Those owing last June's taxes are DELINQUENT.

All such must pay not later than December 20, 1901.

If not, all such property will then be ADVERTISED for sale.

And SOLD for taxes on the third Tuesday in JANUARY, 1902.

And if not BID on at the January sale, the property is forfeited to the STATE OF OHIO.

Penalties belong to the State, therefore can NOT be remitted.

Taxpayers have OPTION of paying FULL year's tax during December collection period;

But are REQUIRED to pay first half, with delinquencies, December 20, 1901, and the remaining half during the June collection period of 1902.

In asking for statement remember property stands on Treasurer's books, in name of owner on April 8, 1901.

The systems of transfers are not kept up each day, as in the office of Auditor and Recorder.

The law requires Treasurer's books to show property as it stood when LIEN took effect.

Therefore the Treasurer's duplicates, delivered in the Fall, remain UN-CHANGED for one year.

Remember also, that a TAX year and a CALENDAR year are not the same.

So that the LAST HALF of 1901 taxes may be paid as LATE as July, 1902—over 15 months after the lien attached.

The LEVY for taxation is made annually by the proper authorities, and MAY BE CHANGED with each succeeding year.

DOG tax and ROAD tax payable annually at the DECEMBER collection.

In writing for information, give name of owner on April 8, 1901, addition or subdivision, number of lot, in CITY or VILLAGE; what township or school district, and number of acres if otherwise. Enclose stamp.

If calling in PERSON please bring along preceding receipt.

Be sure that your tax bill contains ALL of your property and NONE OTHER. You may have either purchased or sold some property since April 8, 1901.

Many taxpayers have formed the habit of paying the December and preceding June tax together, in December, thinking they are paying the full year's tax.

The proper way of paying a full year's tax, at one time, without penalty, is to pay in December for December and succeeding June.

While effort will be made to accommodate the public, taxpayers are especially enjoined to CALL in the EARLY days of the collection period when more attention can be given each patron.

Office Hours, to the public from 5:00 a. m. to 4 p. m. The remainder of the day is absolutely necessary for the other essential clerical duties.

The Treasurer's office will be closed on Thanksgiving Day, Christmas, New Years, Fourth of July and Labor Day.

Newark, Ohio, October 21, 1901.
E. T. RUGG
Treasurer of Licking County, Ohio.

THE TURN OF THE WHEEL

BY BARRY PAINE.

The cabman who told me the story prefers to remain anonymous, nor is there any necessity to mention the name of the out of work valet.

"Come on a pretty thin streak, haven't you?" said the cabman. "What threw you out this last time?"

"Oh, the usual," said the valet laconically and without shame. "Well, I've chucked it myself. Otherwise we might—well, what do you think? One wouldn't hurt us."

"Not for me," said the valet. "I swore off when I got the sack. In fact, that's my only chance to get another place and a living."

"Then we'll have some tea somewhere. I know a place near here where they can do you a chop, and it's not too filthy."

"It's awfully good of you, but—"

"I've been in luck lately—backed a winner at a very good price. My 'missus' has a brother in the stable. You come along."

The valet came along and ate that which was set before him. Then he sat with his head in his hands smoking a short clay, silent, with a grim and deadly look on his face. Then he began soliloquizing, bitterly, incoherently and reminiscences.

"Can't stand dining in hall. Too beastly uncivilized. Charming girl, that. Dined with her at the Masonic. She was at the A. B. C. with us too. God, they're gaining! Half a length. Rawed—well rowed!"

He shouted the last words, half rising from his place and brought his hand down hard on the table with a clatter of the coarse crockery. "Rather less of that, please," said a sharp voice from behind the counter. The out of work valet subsided, replacing his pipe in his mouth and resuming his attitude of despondency.

"Hold your row!" said the cabman. "I refused a good berth yesterday."

"What on earth for?" said the cabman. "Placed as you are, you know," he added delicately.

"Couldn't help it. It was a chap who'd made money. That's the kind I look for nowadays. I've got character of a sort—that I know my work thoroughly and don't steal the spoons, and so on. But my trump card is that I was for a year with Selsborough. The new arrival likes to say, 'Yes, very decent fellow—I got him from Lord Selsborough.' And mind, you, Selsborough has let me down very easily as to—"

"Why I couldn't stop. This chap I'm speaking of was called Smith. It's not a name that suggests anything, but it struck me that I knew the face. I told him the best story I could, and he said he'd give me a fair trial if I would sign off drink altogether. Just at that moment I recognized him and placed him. 'I'm afraid I can't take your situation,' I said. 'He glared at me. 'Why not?' he asked. It happened that we were both standing up at the time. I sat down with my back to him and spoke to him over my shoulder. 'Smith,' I said, 'I wish you'd run over to the kitchen and ask them why the devil they can't send me what I order.' Yest! Fact! It was Smith, my old gyp. You remember him? Of course you do. And then he remembered me. He sort of sank into the earth and called me 'sir.' Then he told me how he'd made his little pile—ten years' close savings and some phenomenal luck in speculation on the top of it. And that's not a bad chap either. We talked over old times for awhile. He never asked me what had brought me down in the world—he ought to know that, though. Presently he said that he'd had many and many a sovereign from me, and if a loan of ten or twenty would be any convenience—well, I cut that short and came away. Still, he's not a bad chap, and I was civil enough to him. But a coincidence of that kind brings things back. Suppose now—"

"Oh, it's too late to talk about that!" the cabman interrupted. "What's the next step to be?"

"Don't know," said the valet drearily. "I wish now I'd kept my mouth shut and taken the place. I wish I'd borrowed the beggar's money; likewise, now I come to think of it, I wish I was dead."

"Well," said the cabman, "you know where to come if you run short before you get work. It wouldn't be much, but—"

The valet stopped him, thanked him and appeared to recover his good spirits. "That's all right," he said; "I won't forget you."

Shortly afterward they parted. The valet spent 2 shillings that night on a combination of four ale and gin. But this detail, together with one or two others that I have mentioned, the cabman only learned afterward at the inquest.—Black and White.

It Altered the Case.

She had looked the house over and was satisfied with it, but as she returned the key to the agent a thought struck her, and she said:

"Ah, there is one more thing. Let me ask if any one has ever died in the house."

"Why, yes, I believe so," he reluctantly replied.

"That settles it then, and I won't take the house."

"Yes, but the idea is uncanny. I'll look for a new house."

"But listen, ma'am. This was no ordinary death. It was a poet who had the house, and one evening they found him dead in his chair with a half completed poem, 'To Night,' in his hand. The angels took him as his soul searched for inspiration."

"Oh, well, that alters the case, and I'll take the house. I thought somebody might have died of pneumonia or something."

FIGHTERS

CAUTIONED BY CORBETT WHO WILL REFEREE

No Jeffries Money in Sight at Present. Ready For Friday Night's Bout At Frisco.

San Francisco, Nov. 13.—James J. Jeffries did little or no gymnasium work in anticipation of his fight with Gus Ruhlman on Friday night, but confined his exertions to a brief walk about Lake Merritt at Oakland, where he is in training, and a long flounder in the baths of the Reliance club. In contrast to this Ruhlman, who is at Blauken's six-mile house, enjoyed a run along the river and through Golden Gate park and then punched the bag for a short time. Betting on the big fight slackened for the reason that there is little or no Jeffries money in sight. Ruhlman has been a short-ender at 2 to 1 for a day, and the Jeffries people assert that the odds will be longer before the fight comes off. They are waiting to get better odds for their money. Referee Harry Corbett visited the managers of both men and had another controversy about the conduct of the fighters in the ring. If they do not break at the word Corbett threatens all sorts of trouble.

More Convicts Captured.—Three more of the 26 fugitive convicts from Fort Leavenworth prison were captured at Bazar, near Cottonwood Falls, Kan., by penitentiary guards, after a fight in which one of the convicts was shot. The captured men are Gilbert Mullen, white, Fred Robinson, mulatto, and Lol Southernland, Indian. Southernland was wounded, but not seriously. He was also shot while making his escape from the prison last week. None of the guards were injured. Only nine of the escaped convicts are yet to be taken, and the whole country is on the lookout. Lawrence Lewis was returned to the penitentiary in irons, and is in the hospital in a critical condition from his wounds. Frank Thompson, when brought in, was found to be only slightly wounded.

Panama Still Stands.—New York, Nov. 13.—Passengers arriving on the steamship Orizaba confirm the news that the city of Panama has not been taken by the rebels. Among those who arrived was St. C. Hunt, agent of the Panama railroad steamship line at Panama. Mr. Hunt said that things were quiet when he left that city Nov. 6. "The reports as to the danger of the city falling have been very much exaggerated," he said. "The Iowa was at Panama when we left and the Machias at Colon, with sufficient force to protect the foreign interests. The rebels have been careful and have not molested American property. General Alban will hold out, for he has 1,500 troops well armed and equipped."

Colon Harrison's Ambition.—Indianapolis, Nov. 13.—Colonel Russell B. Harrison, son of ex-President Benjamin Harrison, was admitted to practice law. It is rumored that his associate will be Professor Ingler, dean of the Indianapolis college of law. Colonel Harrison in reply to an inquiry said: "This consummation of a long-cherished intention has been hastened by my own desire and my father's dying wish that I should carry out his intention to fight to the end the unjust and unmilitary treatment meted out to me by the war department. To do this successfully I found it necessary to have a complete training in law."

A Vitriol Thrower.—Fort Dodge, Ia., Nov. 13.—A strange woman, who signs her name as Julia Morehouse, threw vitriol at the face of Mrs. George Wadley, a respectable woman of this city, but Mrs. Wadley threw her hands in front of her face and escaped with slight burns. The motive of the attack is a mystery. Mrs. Wadley is the attendant at the office of Dr. Bishop, where the assault, which was the culmination of a persecution to which Mrs. Wadley has been subjected at intervals since last August, was committed. The woman has escaped and police have no clue to her identity.

Carnegie's Latest Gift.—Pittsburg, Nov. 13.—Just before the close of a meeting of the board of trustees of the Carnegie institute, Mr. Andrew Carnegie announced that he had decided to increase by $2,000,000 his already large donations. Mr. Carnegie said he would increase his original offer to endow a polytechnic school from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000, provided the city of Pittsburg would donate a site. The rapid growth of the Carnegie institute, which comprises art, music and literary departments, has prompted Mr. Carnegie to double its endowment of $1,000,000.

On the Rocks.—Detroit, Nov. 13.—A telegram received here by the Smith Transportation company says that, owing to the terrible gale which has been prevailing on the lakes the steamer Porter Chamberlain and consort, H. J. Webb, are on the rocks at Dorchester, Georgian bay. The crews are safe but the vessels are in bad shape. Reports from various lake ports tell of great damage to shipping by the gale.

Found Treasure.—Mobile, Ala., Nov. 13.—The British schooner Union, which arrived here Monday, brought 22 pounds of Spanish gold in coin and bars, found in Central American waters near Carmen Brac by Captain Magnus Barton and associates. The coins bear date of 1753. The bars and coins are valued at between $6,000 and $7,000.

FRANCHISE

For Construction of Telephone Exchange Granted to Judge Critchfield at Utica Tuesday.

Utica, Ohio, Nov. 13.—At a meeting of the village council last night a franchise was granted to Judge B. M. Critchfield of Mt. Vernon, to construct a telephone exchange in this town.

Judge Critchfield has recently installed telephone exchanges at Johnstown and at Croton and has been given connection with Newark and over thirty Licking county towns through the Newark Independent Telephone company's lines and with other points of the state through the United States Telephone company's lines.

Before applying to the Utica council for a franchise Judge Critchfield made a contract with the Newark company to connect his exchange here with Newark.

D. A. Bricker, G. W. Buxton and E. M. Bell and G. M. Sipe went to Coshocton today to argue a motion in the natural gas case before the Circuit Court.

SUMMIT STATION.

Aunt Jane Simpson, of this place, was ninety years old on last Monday. She is quite hale and hearty for one of her age, and bids fair to live to see her one hundred birthday.

Master Earl Hoopman spent a few days last week with his grand-parents in Muskingum county.

Quite a number from this place attended the funeral of the late George Puik, at Jersey, on Monday.

Mr. J. S. Axline had the misfortune to have one of his hands badly injured on Monday. He was engaged in setting the bed of his wagon when his hand was caught and badly bruised.

The E. L. will give a literary entertainment in the M. E. church on Thanksgiving night. All are invited. George Alberry and family of Ireland, spent Sunday with T. J. Sanford and family at their home here.

J. D. Wilson has gone to southern Georgia, where he and his brother have purchased a saw-mill. They will embark in the lumber business. They will ship most of their lumber to the coast, as it is largely pine.

J. S. Axline and family spent Sunday in Jersey the guests of Frank Smith and family.

Master Charles Looker of Columbus, spent Sunday with his mother Mrs. Samuel Alwood, of this place.

William Greenwood and family were in Columbus on Sunday.

The mid-year Universalist Ministerial Association of Ohio will be held at the Universalist church, this place, Nov. 20-22, 1901. The address of welcome will be delivered by Mr. I. N. Milburn. Everybody is invited to attend.

GRANVILLE

Forbids Newark People From Attending Gatherings There—Students Stay in Granville.

Granville, Ohio, Nov. 13.—At a meeting of the Board of Health here last night the following resolutions was adopted:

Resolved that residents of Newark be prohibited from attending public or private gatherings in Granville as long as similar restrictions are in force in Newark and that Newark students attending any of the Granville schools be required to remain in Granville during the continuance of smallpox in Newark.

Violation of these regulations is subject to fine and imprisonment under the laws of Ohio.

JAS. H. FARRELL, A PROMINENT CHICAGO MAN.

And the Oldest Member of the Illinois House of Representatives Makes a Recommendation.

James H. Farrell of Chicago is one of the best known figures in the Democratic politics of that city. For years he has been marshal of the famous Cook County Democracy Marching Club, which has participated in Democratic campaigns in behalf of the states of the union, and which went to New York especially to assist in the election of Mayor Van Wyck.

Capt. Farrell is the oldest member of the Illinois House of Representatives in point of service, having been a member continuously since 1887. His constituents have elected him eight times. He has been a leader in that body from the beginning of his career and is one of the best known figures in Illinois politics.

Capt. Farrell is 59 years of age and one of the best preserved men for his years in the Illinois Legislature, despite his arduous and constant duties in that body. Mr. Farrell is engaged in the real estate business in Chicago. Under date of March 14, 1901, he writes as follows:

Springfield, Ill.

THE CONVERSION OF PHILANDER

His was one of the most unique and interesting recitals since the days when Saul of Tarsus was suddenly converted and saviors of the miraculous as well, but to get the full meat of it one must hear it from the lips of the chief actor, touched by the strong flavor of humor he imparts to it. It is quite a different heroic from the "experience" he gives in prayer meeting, quite as truthful, but garnished with frills of expression that are easily forgiven to an old soldier, Philander being a veteran of the civil war.

His whole name—it comes of good stock and is an honorable one—is Philander Kile Tucker, and he was a member of the Twenty-eighth Wisconsin volunteers, Company C, with the rank of first sergeant. And one of the little ironies of fate is expressed in the fact that he fought hard and bravely and went through the war without a scratch to find himself many years later badly worried by an agent of peace. Sergeant Tucker believes absolutely that it was a divine plan carefully laid and carried out to bring him into the fold.

"I fought men part of my life, but I fought the Lord all my life. You see, if I wasn't for him I must be against him. Why, I was a terror in those days. I used to swear like a trooper before I was converted. By gum, sometimes the air was blue with sulphur—wasn't it, wife?"

"Yes," admitted Mrs. Tucker with a smile. Her face, with its corona of white hair and pink color, looked as sweet and serene as a Madonna's as she sat opposite her soldier laddie and heard his oft told tale with the same amount of interest as if it were new. "You didn't mean any harm, father, and you were honest, but you had a great gift of swearing. I noticed it more after you came home from the war."

"I always swore, ever since I could speak, but you got kind of used to it. Cuss words just seemed to come kind of natural. When I got mad, I swore. That was before I was converted. What year was that? It seems—particular—that I can't remember."

"It was along in 1867," his wife said. "Sure. You're right, as you always are. It was in September, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. I was helping a neighbor harvest, and was driving a steam traction harrow, and that was the time the Lord got ready to tackle me."

"I was backing up to hitch on to the separator before moving to the next lot, and just at that moment the folks came out and asked me to come in to supper. I wasn't hungry and would rather have worked than eat, but farmers are kind of luffy if you slight their vittles and expect hands to eat early and often."

"So I went in to supper, and when I come out I found that engine blowing off at 115 pounds of steam. Whew! It was hotter than—no, mother, I won't swear—than particular, and I swore then a blue streak. And I don't doubt the Lord heard me. I certainly swore loud enough."

"Then I took hold of the reverse lever to back my engine up to take on the separator, and the pressure of steam was so great on the valve the lever pulled like a runaway horse. I gave it a quick, hard jerk, and that lever dropped from my hand to the bottom of the quadrant and that left the ports wide open, and the engine lit out like wildfire and run back into the separator, and when they came together I was between the two. I was squeezed like a lemon between the two machines, and the engine run thirty feet with me before it jounced away from the separator. I was saying to myself, 'Old boy, if you're going to get out of this it's time you were doing something yourself,' and with that I gave a shout, and the men came running up and I was taken out in sections—at least it seemed that way then."

"I said: 'Boys, catch me. I am going to faint. This is the Lord's doing, but if he thinks I'm going to accept his love in this fashion he'll find he's mistaken. If I'm to go over the road, I'll go just as I am.' And then I didn't know another thing for two weeks. And I wasn't converted then, by gum!"

"But when they had used a barn door to splinter me together and I was beginning to suffer the pain of healing wounds I began to wonder why the Lord hadn't finished the job and squeezed me out altogether, and a kind of feeling came over me that I might as well give up; if he cared enough about my soul as to try to save it I might as well help along instead of kicking against him, as I had done all my life. And then I up and asked pardon for all my meanness and promised to use no more cuss words, and if one does slip out now and then—I'd kept them on tap so long—he isn't going to be hard on me after putting me through what he did to get me. Glory hallelujah!"

Here Mrs. Philander ran her hands over the keys of the little parlor organ in an anthem of praise, and the old soldier stood erect, a fine figure of a man, and as the music ceased he remarked: "I tell you what—since I made it with the Lord I'm the happiest man in Cook county, by gum!"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Begged John's Pardon.

At the Old Bailey it was customary to sentence the whole of the prisoners found guilty at the sessions at one time. It fell to Baron Graham's lot to perform this duty, and he accordingly went over the list with due solemnity, but omitted one person brought up for sentence, Mr. John Jones. The judge was on the point of finishing the sentences when the officer reminded his lordship of the omission. Whereupon the judge said gravely, "Oh, I'm sure I beg John Jones' pardon," and then sentenced him to transportation for life.

RATIFIED

WAS CONSTITUTION BY VOTERS OF ALABAMA.

A Missouri Woman is Saved From Gallows—Passing of Sabre and the Lance.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 12.—Partial returns from every county in Alabama indicate that the new constitutional amendment has been ratified by nearly 30,000 votes. The black belt counties, where the largest majorities for ratification are expected, have been slow to send in returns, and when the official count is made the majority may go as high as 32,000. All of the white counties have practically completed the count, and they voted for the new constitution by a small majority. General C. M. Shelley, leader of the opposition, claims that the state will give a majority of at least 20,000 against ratification. He bases that estimate on returns from north Alabama, which show increased majorities against the new constitution.

Woman Saved From Gallows.

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 12.—Alice Nesenbauer, tried in 1900 for murdering her husband, was saved from the gallows by a decision of the supreme court, which held that there was no ground for conviction. She had been convicted and sentenced to death for poisoning her husband, a Burlington roundhouse employee, at Hannibal, in July, 1900. Two of Mrs. Nesenbauer's children had also died suddenly and the facts that all had been insured, that Mrs. Nesenbauer objected to a post-mortem examination and the finding of a powder in the vault, were strong factors in her conviction. Through her trial and imprisonment the prisoner had her baby constantly with her.

Passing of Sabre and Lance.

London, Nov. 12.—Owing to Lord Roberts' conviction that the sabre and lance have seen their best days and must be replaced, even for cavalry, by rifles, while the bulk of the infantry must be henceforth mounted, the small arms committee was instructed some months ago to find a modified form of the Lee-Enfield suitable for all arms. As a result the committee has decided in favor of shortening the barrel five inches and increasing the twist of the rifle in order to compensate for the loss of range and accuracy, adding a 10-cartridge clip action. An experimental issue of 1,000 will be made soon.

Was Murdered.

Memphis, Nov. 12.—Cerro Gordo Hooks, a well known business man, died several weeks ago, and there were rumors afloat that his death occurred from other than natural causes. Two weeks after interment of the body the grand jury ordered the corpse exhumed, and Dr. William Krauss, a well known physician and chemist, was ordered to perform an autopsy. The stomach and other organs were taken from the body, and after an investigation of several days Dr. Krauss reported to the grand jury that enough ground glass and arsenic were found in the organs to cause death.

Fight on Ragtime.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—A call was sent out from the Chicago Federation of Musicians asking for the united efforts of all musicians in the United States to make a fight on music of the ragtime variety. The call says "ragtime music is immoral, obscene, degrading and unworthy of production."

Freight Trains Meet.

Correll, Minn., Nov. 12.—By the collision of two freight trains on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway at this place Engineer Mike Doonan of Minneapolis and Brakeman J. R. Bird of Correll were instantly killed, and H. M. Crocker, conductor, was injured.

Kentucky Collectorship.

Washington, Nov. 12.—President Roosevelt has decided this contest for the Kentucky internal revenue collectorship by appointing Mr. J. H. Craft to the position, which was made vacant Saturday by the resignation of C. E. Sapp.

Insane Man's Deeds.

Centerville, Ia., Nov. 12.—Louis Bailes cut the throat of his sister, Kessi, inflicting a fatal wound, and then slashed his own throat in a futile attempt at suicide. He is believed to be insane.

THE TEN THOUSAND DOLLAR LAWSON TROPHY CUP.

This is the magnificent trophy which Thomas W. Lawson of Boston has presented to the Hull (Mass.) Yacht club to be raced for by ninety foot sloops. The bowl and stand measure twenty-five inches in height, and the bowl has a capacity of almost nine gallons. The entire set, including an artistic ladle, contains over 113 pounds of silver. The trophy in its entirety is a historical record of the past half century of international yacht races. The bowl suggests the sea, from which emerges the figure of a Triton on one side and a mermaid on the other. Between these two figures on the front of the bowl there is a space for a picture of the winning yacht; date, etc. On the back of the bowl is an etched representation of the yacht America, and below, forming a base to the body of the bowl, is a succession of dolphins, between which, circling around the bowl, are the cups. Each of the cups represents a chapter in yacht racing and bears an etching of one of the winning yachts, with name and date of race.

PEOPLE OF THE DAY

The Buller Incident.—After several months of quiet life, following his removal as commander of the British forces to South Africa, General Buller has reached the middle of the stage in one jump. For certain utterances he made in a recent speech, in which he discussed the South African war and especially the siege of Ladysmith, he was dismissed from the command of the First army corps and retired on half pay.

It seems that the dismissal of Buller by Secretary of War Brodrick has brought to the front a great many persons who were not hitherto classed as the general's friends, but who are now vociferously defending him and attacking the secretary of war. The friends of Buller include people of every class, and meetings and demonstrations in favor of the dismissed general have been held in all parts of England. In the language of Sir Lucius O'Trigger, "It's a—pretty quarrel as it stands."

Deceived.—Edith—You say old Mr. Goldley deceived Edith dreadfully about his age? Gladys—Yes, poor girl! After they were married he confessed that he was only sixty instead of seventy-five.

EXPENSIVE DINNERS.

Two That Were Served in Delmonico's Old Place in New York.

Probably the most expensive dinner ever given at Delmonico's old restaurant, on Fourteenth street, New York, was that given by Mr. Morton Peto to the ten and fifteen merchants of New York, 219 in number. It cost $25,000. The rarest wines and the most elaborate decorations were used. The menu cards were of gold, and the guests sat on silk cushions on which their names were embroidered. In the center of the table was a miniature lake in which swan swans taken from Central park. Clara Louise Kellogg received $1,000 for singing two songs at this feast and a present besides of a diamond bracelet. The salon was smothered in flowers.

Another dinner given at one of the Brimfield establishments for ten people cost $400 a plate. It was luxurious enough to be classical. The waiters, five of them, were dressed as sailors. The host was a yachtsman, and he bought the waiters' clothes. The guests drank, or rather, tasted, every kind of liquor that ever has been brought to America. They finished with a pousse cafe made of eleven liquors. Before each plate sat a cut glass basin about twenty inches in diameter and four inches deep. Each was nearly filled with water perfumed with attar of roses, on the surface of which floated half open pond lilies. In the basin a perfect model of the yacht owned by the host was placed. It was cut in red cedar wood, with cabin, rail, wheel for steering, brasswork, such as life-rafts and binnacles, masts, rigging and trimmed with sailor knots, seamed pure laces and looms, rigging of silk and cords colored as it would be in the original, and sails of satin. There were a gold car and many other gewgaws.—New York Sun.

A BLACK ROBED MAN

One November night some years ago, soon after I had been called to the bar, I dined with some friends. It was shortly after the close of the last Carlist war, and I was employed in an important case in which the liberty and probably the life of a distinguished Carlist leader were at stake. This gentleman was a relative of my mother, and, apart from my youthful enthusiasm for my profession, I was devoting all my time and every scrap of energy I possessed to his interests.

Now, the fact that I had been dining out will no doubt be seized upon by skeptical persons, and to their minds will probably explain all the circumstances that I am now going to set down. I can only state most solemnly that when they occurred I was never more in my sober senses.

It was long past midnight when I took leave of my friends. As I passed along I had the street almost to myself, and I paced briskly, enjoying the night air. Suddenly, though I heard no sound of footsteps, the sensation came to me that some one was walking behind me. I glanced around and saw the figure of a man walking on the outside of the pavement about six paces in my rear.

He was tall and clad in a long black cloak, the end of which was thrown over his right shoulder in the Spanish fashion and in such a manner as to conceal the lower half of his face. A broad black sombrero was crushed down over his brows and from beneath its brim nothing but the tip of a thin white nose was visible. His appearance at once brought my mind back to the case on which I was engaged, and I could not help wondering whether this figure, which looked so singular in its Spanish costume in the streets of London, was not in some way connected with it.

As I walked on I began to be somewhat uneasy. There were so few people about. I thought of assassination. I knew the murderous nature of the "Xavaja," and I was defenseless, not having even the protection of a stick. Then again, I reflected, it might be that this man was some compatriot of my client, who wished to make some communication to me, but if so, why did he not approach? I felt he was still behind me, although his foot made no sound on the curb.

Not relishing the close attendance of the mysterious stranger, I crossed over to the other side of the street, where, at least, I would be better able to observe his motions, but before I had got half way across I was aware that he had also left the pavement and was following me at the same distance as before. All this was sufficiently singular and perturbing, for I now felt certain that the man was following me. To make quite certain I presently crossed the street again, and, sure enough, there was my pursuer at the same distance at my heels.

I now resolved to take action, and, turning myself sharply around, I asked him what he desired of me. To my consternation there was no one there! I rubbed my eyes. I walked a few paces back. I examined one or two doors which I had just passed, but all were securely fastened and there was no trace of the mysterious figure in any direction. I asked myself what it could mean.

But where had the man vanished to? An uneasy feeling began to take possession of me. I am not superstitious, but the apparition was so extraordinary in itself and its disappearance so unaccountable that I felt a cold shiver traverse the region of my spine. Presently I walked on, a good deal bewildered and upset by my experience.

When I reached home, in the little well-lit courtyard before my own door stood the figure silently awaiting me. My heart stood still for a moment as I found myself face to face with the inscrutable being that had haunted my homeward journey. There was something so sinister in the man's aspect, something so daunting and uncanny in the silent persistence with which he had led me to my very door, that I confess I was terrified, and my heart began to flutter in my bosom.

I did not know how to act. I tried to speak, but my tongue refused to utter a sound. Something had to be done, however, and I advanced a few paces. The figure immediately turned and disappeared in the black archway of the passage to my stairs.

I finally went out at the other door of the inn, and, being quite unable to overcome my fears, I went and put up at a hotel for the night. I passed a restless night and only fell asleep at dawn, and it was 11 o'clock before I awoke.

When I arrived at Staple inn the first person I saw was the night porter. "Lord bless me, Mr. Percival," said he, running toward me, "I am glad to see you. We thought you must be killed. We've had a terrible smash here. Have you your keys? We were just going to break open your door, for we could get no answer."

By this time we had arrived at my door, where my oak was still bravely sported. On entering a strange sight met our eyes. The huge brick chimney of the house had fallen in through the roof during the night and the room was filled with its debris. It had crashed down into my bedroom and fallen right upon my wooden bed, the broken fragments of which were in all corners of the room.

I had escaped certain death. I never saw my ghostly visitant again, and the case against my Carlist client was decided in his favor. Whether there was any connection between the two events I am unable to say. I have narrated the circumstances as they happened, with no touch of exaggeration and no embellishment of fancy.—Penny Pictorial Magazine.

Enthusiastic Converts

There are Thousands of Them Who Believe as This Woman Does.

Mrs. Ira Knowlton, of Butte, Montana, is a most enthusiastic convert to the virtues of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets as a cure for obstinate stomach trouble. She says: "I had poor digestion nearly all my life. It now seems to me that for years I never knew what it was to be hungry, to have a good natural appetite.

"I was troubled with gas in stomach causing pressure on the heart with palpitation and short breath. Nearly everything I ate soured on my stomach sometimes I had cramps in the stomach which almost resembled spasms."

"Doctors told me I had catarrh of the stomach, but their medicines would not reach it and I would still be a sufferer had I not, in sheer desperation decided to try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets."

"I knew they were advertised remedies and I didn't believe anything I read about them as I had no confidence in advertised remedies, but my sister living in Pittsburg wrote me last spring telling me how Stuart's Tablets had cured her little daughter of indigestion and loss of flesh and appetite and I hesitated no longer."

I bought a fifty cent box at my drug store and took two of the large tablets after each meal and found them delightful to take, being as pleasant to the taste as caramel candy. Whenever during the day or night I felt any pain or uneasiness in the stomach or about the heart I took one of the small tablets and in three weeks it seemed to me as if I had never known what stomach trouble was."

I keep Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in the house and every member of our family uses them occasionally after a hearty meal or when any of us have a pain or ache in the digestive organs."

Mr. E. H. Davis of Hampton, Va., says: "I doctored five years for dyspepsia, but in two months I got more benefit from Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets than in five years of the doctor's treatment."

most convenient remedy as well as the safest as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach bloating after meals, sympathetic heart trouble."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is not a cheap cathartic but an active digestive remedy containing the pepsin and diastase which every weak stomach lacks, and they cure stomach troubles because they digest the food eaten and give the weak, abused overworked stomach a chance to rest and recuperate."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold in every drug store in the United States, Canada and Great Britain.

THIRD TIME

Miss Costlow Has Set Wedding Day— Ceremony in Cleveland on Thanksgiving Day.

(Columbus Dispatch.)

William Nunn, the Cleveland undertaker, who, as stated in Sunday's Dispatch, is to wed Miss Lillian Costlow of this city, fiancée of Rosslyn H. Ferrell when he was executed, has given another interview to a Cleveland newspaper, in which he says the wedding is to take place in Cleveland instead of Columbus. On Thanksgiving day at St. Stephen's Catholic church in Cleveland the ceremony is to be performed. The wedding is to be a quiet one and only members of the families are to be invited. This is the third time Miss Costlow's wedding day has been set. In both the former cases the intended husband died before the marriage contract could be fulfilled.

Mr. Nunn is a brother of the treasurer-elect of Cuyahoga county.

DAUGHTER

Of a Ft. Wayne Drayman Elopes With the Son of a New York Millionaire.

Ft. Wayne Ind., Nov. 13.—John Pulz Jr., son of a New York millionaire, and Miss Anna Roehrs, the eighteen-year old daughter of a modest drayman, eloped yesterday to New York. Mr. Pulz carried all the papers before he left, but in such a way that the letters were not received until he and his bride-to-be were on the way East. He stated that he wished it known that they would be married in New York immediately upon their arrival and would then sail for Europe to join his parents who are touring the continent.

Mr. Pulz and Miss Roehrs quietly left yesterday. She is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roehrs, of West Jefferson st. Mr. Pulz came to the city September 21 and has been stopping at the Wayne Hotel, though a portion of the time he was a guest at the Roehrs home.

Wedding Near Highwater.

Highwater, O., Nov. 13.—The latest brilliant social affair in this part of the county was the marriage of Mr. John O. Jones and Miss Estella Cramer, on Wednesday evening, Nov. 6, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Cramer, near Highwater. There were more than one hundred guests present, and Mr. and Mrs. Cramer left nothing undone to make everyone have an enjoyable time. The ceremony was performed by the pastor of the Fredonia M. E. church of which both the bride and groom are members. After the ceremony an elegant wedding supper was served. The bride looked beautiful, dressed in white mohair and carrying a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. They were the recipients of many valuable and beautiful presents of silver and china, cut glassware, linen, furniture, &c., as well as the best wishes of their many friends or neighbors in their new life and home.

It is said that all the mill's are crowded at present.

MR. SPRAGUE GETS ISLAND.

The state board of public works on the recommendation of the state canal commission, granted a lease Tuesday to J. T. Sprague, Elm island in the Licking reservoir. Value $500.

The lease of the Licking reservoir island for which J. T. Sprague and the Buckeye Lake Traction company asked, was not considered.

Snow is a substance which offers a most surprising resistance to penetration by a rifle bullet, far more indeed than wood. Experiments made in Norway have shown that a snow wall four feet thick is absolutely proof against the Norwegian army rifle, which, by the way, is of quite exceptional piercing power, and that at all ranges from 50 yards up to half a mile. This suggests a new means of defense in winter campaigning and snow is far more easily and quickly handled than earth or sandbags.
